JUL 23 1961 CINCINNATI (Ohio) ENCAMPROVED For Release 1999/09/16: CIA-RDP70-0005

Circ.: ml 208,963 272,597

Front Edh Other Page Page Page

Date JUL 23 1961

STATINTL

Offbeat

Washington

back, but the doctors are playing it safe. Word is mađe PRIVATE POLLS public is willing to fight to preserve West Berlin. The polls were conducted by LOU HARRIS, who was Mr. Kennedy's chief political pollster during the Presi-dential election campaign last fall.

ALLEN W. DULLES will go back to writing books after his retirement as Di- House seat instead of the WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is under telligence Agency, expected toward the end of this tear the golf course at least this first retirement plans until the end of the month. The President walks easily and appears to have recovered from his strained back but the doctors are man surrender in Italy, which he helped arrange while an intelligence agent that they will take another while an intelligence agent look at the question of in World War II. Mr. Dulles Presidential golf in August. also is toying with the idea also is toying with the idea of writing a book dealing with more recent aspects for the Administration in- of his intelligence career. dicate that the American His "Germany's Underground," published in 1947, won critical acclaim.

> GUESS WHO will be former Vice-President Nixon's Congressman when the new California district lines become effective next year? James Roosevelt. A few of Mr. Nixon's friends are urging him to run for that California governorship. They contend it would be a "coup" to beat the son of a famous Democratic President, and would return Mr. Nixon to the national scene in Washington. The R. publican candidate tor President last year smiles at the suggestion — and indicates he is not altogether uninterested.

NANCY SALINGER, wife of presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger, visited her dressmaker recently and came away delighted with a brand-new outfit and matching shoes. Mrs. Salinger liked it so much she wore it to a party at the home of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. That was a mistake. Mrs. Salinger, as often befalls guests at an exuberant Kennedy family gathering, was tossed into the swimming pool.